Once upon a time
there was a young girl called Snow White.
She was lovely, but the Wicked Queen was jealous and wanted
to get rid of her.

Snow White is standing in a large, arched window, looking out at a lush green landscape. She is wearing a yellow top and a long blue skirt. Two small blue birds are flying in the air outside. The window is framed by stone pillars and has green ivy growing on the wall below it.

The queen's magic mirror
told her that Snow White was prettier than she was
and she wasn't having that!

Snow White ran away. She came across a little cottage.
Nobody was home, but the door was unlocked so she crept inside.

There were seven little chairs around a low table in the kitchen and seven little beds in the bedroom upstairs.

“Oh my goodness!” cried Snow White. “Seven darling little children must live here with no one to look after them.”
